THE COURT JESTER.

A Practical Joke That Will Somers Played on Cardinal Wolsey.

Amelia Wofford tells of "The Court Jesters of England" in St. Nicholas. The following is related of King Henry VIII's jester:

Somers, like Soogan, liked a practical joke, and one that he played on Cardinal Wolsey is thus quaintly told by Armin:

"Of a time appointed the king dined at Windsor, in the chapel yard at Cardinal Wolsey's at the same time when he was building that admirable work of his tomb, at whose gate stood a number of poor people, to be served with alms when dinner was done within, and as Will passed by he saluted him, taking him for a worthy personage, which pleased him. In he comes, and finding the king at dinner and the cardinal by attending, to disgrace him that he never loved, Harry, says hee, lend me £10. What to doe? saies the king. To pay three or foure of the cardinal's creditors, quoth hee, to whom my word is past, and they are now come for the money. That thou shalt, Will, quoth hee. Creditors of mine? saies the cardinal. He giveth your grace my head if any man can justly aske me a penny. No, saies Will. Lend me £10. If I pay it not where thou owest it, He giveth thee £20 for it. Doe so, saies the king. That I will, my liege, saies the cardinal, though I owe none. With that he lends Will £10. Will goes to the gate, distributes it to the poor and brought the empty bag. There is thy bag againe, saies hee. Thy creditors are satisfied, and my word out of danger. Who received, saies the king, the brewer or the baker? Nayther, Harry, saies Will Sommers. But, cardinal, answer me in one thing, to whom dost thou owe thy soule? To God, quoth hee. To whom thy wealth? To the poore, saies hee. Take thy forfeit, Harry, saies the foole. Open confession, open penance. His head is thine, for to the poore at the gate I paid his debt, which hee yields is due, or if thy stony heart will not yield it so, save thy head by denying thy word and lend it mee. Then knowest I am poore and have neither wealth nor wit, and what thou lendest to the poore God will pay thee tenfold. ***

The king laughed at the jest, and so did the cardinal for a show, but it grieved him to jest away £10 so."

DON'T TALK OF YOUR ILLS.

People Are More Interested In the Pleasant Side of Life.

"Every one of us has his and her own ailments," writes Edward W. Bok in The Ladies' Home Journal, deprecating the unpleasant habit many people have of discussing their bodily ills. "It is enough for us all to keep well ourselves. To be compelled to listen to the ailments of others does not make that task any easier. Besides all this, these unnecessary narratives of personal ailments are positively injurious to ourselves. Physicians all agree that many of the slight illnesses, of which some people make so much, could be cured if they would but take their minds from themselves. Too many people work themselves into illnesses or prevent themselves from getting well by talking about a petty ailment which, if forgotten, would right itself.

"I will not say that women, more than men, are prone to this evil, but as the majority of women have more leisure than the majority of men they are more likely to let their minds dwell upon every little ill that assails them and talk about it. It seems to me that one of the most important lessons we can all learn with the close of the year is to refrain from inflicting upon others what is purely personal to ourselves. Let us cease this tiresome, this inconsiderate, this unnecessary talk about our ailments. Cold and hard as it may seem, the fact is nevertheless true, and will ever remain so, that the vast majority of people are interested in what is pleasant in our lives, but not in what is unpleasant. Pains and sorrows are elements in our lives which are sacred and interesting only to ourselves."

Von Moltke.

Von Moltke was originally an officer in the Danish army. At the age of 9 years he was entered as a royal cadet—i. e., he was to be educated at the expense of the king, Frederick VI, in the Copenhagen Military academy—and, having taken his examinations, he wore the Danish uniform until he, as a sub-lieutenant at the age of 27, petitioned the king for three years' leave to proceed to the continent to study the military art, as he says in his petition, "to be able on his return to employ his acquisitions for the good of his country." This petition was granted, but the count also asked to be allowed to retain his pay, and as the king refused this he took his discharge and entered the Prussian army, a recruit whom that organization has every reason to hold in enduring memory.

Papa Is Excused.

Here is the latest of an infant terrible who lords it over the home of a politician in this city, says the Toledo Blade: The minister came to the house the other day and the kid entertained him for a short time.

"I say, I'm awful 'fraid of the dark," was his first remark.

"You should not be," admonished the visitor, "for God takes care of you everywhere."

"I know it, and I say my prayers every night, but pop he don't have to, as he don't get home till 'most morning."

Tablets said to contain the "concentrated essence of wine" and a ready sale in France. Two of them cost about 3 shillings and will produce three quarts of so called claret.

Cesar did not say, "Et tu, Brute." Eyewitnesses of the assassination deposed that he died fighting, but silent, like a wolf.

Choosing a Husband.

George Eliot says in one of her novels, that almost any woman can marry any man she makes up her mind to. Whether this is truth or fiction, certainly a woman chooses her husband oftener than he chooses her. But she must play the negative part. She can only make herself as attractive as possible in a modest, womanly way and rely upon human nature and manly instinct.

A sensible man naturally seeks a whole-some-looking, healthy, capable companion. Men are not unselfish enough to willingly assume the care of a weak, nervous, debilitated wife.

Men are not attracted by a shallow, pimply complexion, foul breath, or thin, emaciated form, because these symptoms are the sure index of poor digestion and impoverished blood.

A woman afflicted by these mortifying miseries should seek the powerful, purifying and nutritional influence of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which completely dispels all unwholesome appearances by clearing and renovating the organic sources of healthful vitality.

It helps the liver to filter all bilious impurities from the blood. It gives the digestive organs power to extract nourishment from the food. It rounds out thin forms; wipes away wrinkles, and gives to the complexion its natural clearness and bloom. "Your Golden Medical Discovery" cured me of a severe case of poisoning of the blood," writes Mrs. S. A. Rice, of Coast Santa Cruz Co., Cal. "I was one after another would break out in my arms, and were very painful. I have tried the locally praised Sarsaparilla without any benefit whatever, and not until I took your 'Discovery' did I get well. That was two years ago, and I have not had a boil or sore of any kind since."

A Baked Bonnet.

During a recent rainstorm a society woman was caught in a sudden down-pour and was compelled to run home in very undignified haste. Her dignity, however, wasn't damaged as much as her bonnet. The latter had been a dream of beauty when she started out. It was a perfect nightmare when she reached home again. She thought that a little heating would bring it about all right. The kitchen fire had gone out, but she put the bonnet in the oven and prepared to build the fire. Just as she had got all the materials together the doorbell rang. It was a caller. The visitor was a great gossip, and she had a brand new bit of scandal to tell. The two women became very much absorbed in their chat. During the course of it the servant girl, who had been out for the afternoon, returned and passed back into the kitchen. About an hour later the two gossips in the parlor began to notice a queer odor coming from the kitchen. The truth of the situation suddenly flashed upon the hostess, who immediately rushed out into the kitchen. There she found to her horror that the girl had built the kitchen fire and her lovely bonnet lay in the oven roasted to a crisp. —Philadelphia Record.

A London Cook.

There is a celebrated cook in London about whom it is said that he makes an income of over £3,000 a year. He is attached to no house.

This is how he earns his living: In his own brougham he sets out toward evening for the house of some rich man who is going to give a dinner at which every dish must be above criticism. Here he alights, and, making for the kitchen, goes through the process of tasting all the soups, sauces and made dishes, advising, when his palate suggests, a little more salt here, a pinch of herbs there, a dash of sugar in this sauce, a suspicion of onion in that sauce, etc.

This done, he pockets his fee of 5 guineas and drives on to the next dinner giving patron who has bidden him to his feast in this strange fashion. His nightly list comprises many houses all through the London season. —Philadelphia Ledger

The Trans-Mississippi and International Congress is composed of delegates from every State and Territory West of the Mississippi river. The idea of his exposition originated in that Congress at its session at Omaha in 1895, and the project has become a National enterprise and the National Commission has been organized and is in active service, there being one commissioner for each of the several departments of the Government. Most of the Trans-Mississippi States are well along in the way of gathering exhibits from their respective States and many of them have made liberal appropriations, while others are preparing exhibits through private enterprise.

Vice-President H. R. Maxson of Reno, has made arrangements whereby he can get Nevada exhibits, shipped from any point in the State along the line of the O. P. R. R., to Omaha and return, and he requests all persons who wish the interests of the State advertised, to co-operate with the Exposition County Commissioner of his county, whose name is shown above, and prepare some product of his county and send it to the nearest point on the O. P. R. R. from which place it will be sent to Omaha and exhibited, and returned to the same point at the close of the exposition, free of expense to the exhibitor. Full information should accompany everything sent for exhibition. Before sending anything to the line of the railroad a full description should be given to the Exposition Commissioner of the county, who in turn will notify the Vice-President, who will notify him what action to take, otherwise there might be many duplications. Apply to your County Representative for further information, and don't let this opportunity of advertising the resources of Nevada be lost.

E. Katz, Agent.THE GREAT QUESTION OF THE AGE.

The Congressional Record of January 28th contains a part of what was said in the debate on the Teller resolution. In discussing the financial question Senator Teller of Colorado said in part:

"Mr. President, I have shown, I confess, that I am deeply concerned. I do not know but that I may be so low in moral intelligence that I do not know what is right, but I have tried hard to learn. I have given to this question years of study that few men have. Before my God and my countrymen, I believe that this is the great question of the age; that the money question threatens this people not only with danger to the existence of the republic but that it involves the enslavement of mankind throughout the world.

"In 1893 I said to my countrymen, 'you are entering upon an era of industrial slavery such as the world has never seen.' Mr. President, it has come. It is here with all your boasted prosperity. You close down the mills of New England. You take from the laboring man 10, 15 and 20 per cent of his wages. You beggar him; you destroy his opportunity; you make it impossible for him to discharge the duties of citizenship, and then you tell us that all these things may be done, that prices may be lowered, that products may be kept at a price that does not pay for production, and in the end labor must stand it all, and yet you tell us that you are doing this, that the bondholder may have the bounty—not the contracted price, but the bounty—the beneficence of the government of the United States.

"Mr. President, if beneficence is to be dealt out, let it be dealt out to the men who form the great basis of society. Let it be dealt out to the man who maintain the honor and integrity of the country. Would you look to the bondholder, would you look to the money shaver, would you look to the banker in the hour of your distress?

If your flag were assailed, you would go to the man with calloused hands, for whom the silver dollar is good enough and who is willing to take it. To that class you go. When the great contest between one and another portion of our country, the bondholder now, the money lender then, said to the government, 'We will take your securities at 12 per cent discount.' What did the great body of the American people do? They said 'we will carry your flag, we will fight your battles, we will do all this for $13 a month, and we will take our pay in greenbacks worth 40 cents to the dollar.' No New England man rose then, no New York man rose then and said, 'it is dishonest to give these soldiers 40-cent money.' When they went into the army, the greenback dollar was worth 40 cents. They have appealed here again and again, by petition and otherwise, that we make up to them the depreciation of the money they received from us, a mere stipend for the danger that they incurred, and, Mr. President, not a man in this chamber or in the other who holds now that the honor of the government is being destroyed by the payment of silver would listen to that appeal."

SECRETARY GAGE'S CIRCULAR.

L. J. Gage, Secretary of the Treasury, has issued a circular, in which he states that:

"Neither silver certificates nor silver dollars are redeemable in gold."

"Gold coins and standard silver dollars, being standard coins of the United States, are not redeemable."

"Subsidiary coins and minor coins may be presented, in sums or multiple of $20 to the Treasurer of the United States or to an assistant treasurer for redemption or exchange into lawful money."

"Gold certificate, being receipts for gold coin, are redeemable in such coin by the Treasurer and all assistant treasurers of the United States."

"Silver certificates are receipts for standard silver dollars deposited, and are redeemable in such dollars only."

"Coin obligations of the Government are redeemable in gold coin when gold is demanded, and is silver when silver is demanded."

As many of our local gold standard men contend that standard silver dollars, which contain less than fifty cents worth of silver at the present price of the metal, pass current for 100 cents because the Government redeems the silver dollars in gold, the statement of such high gold bug authority as the Secretary of the Treasury, ought to satisfy them that that they are wrong. A standard silver dollar is the unit of money in the United States. The Government declares it to be a legal tender for all debts and the Government will not redeem it except it is tendered in payment of dues.

The Mining Fair now in progress in San Francisco, is said to be more of an advertising and information bureau for the Klondike than any thing else. Alaskan outfits, even to the necessary dogs are on exhibition and for sale and illustrations are given of packing supplies over the Chilkoot Pass, by men who in all probability never saw Alaska and perhaps not even snow or ice. It is claimed, however, that the exhibit is pretty good and as long as the admission is low, no one is seriously hurt.

GEOGRAPHIC NOTES.

Germany has declared an embargo against California fruit, alleging it is infested with vermin.

The Supreme Court of California has decided that John H. Bartelman of Los Angeles must hang for wife-murder.

Ethel Harter of Chico fell asleep with a lighted cigarette in her hand. Her clothing caught fire and she was burned so badly that she will die.

The plague at Bombay, India, has struck terror to the hearts of the natives. All other towns have established a quarantine against the exodus from Bombay.

Sixteen men were carried to sea from the shores of New Foundland by treacherous ice floes. Several boats and a large steamer went in search of them, but no report has been received.

A new act of the Legislature of New Mexico, requiring a deposit of $10,000 from each insurance company doing business in the Territory, has caused a general stampede of the various companies.

The Market Street Railway Company has decided, by the advice of Attorney Herrin, to equip its electric cars immediately with life-saving fenders, without waiting any action of the Board of Supervisors.

Thirty-five lives were lost and several million dollars' worth of property destroyed by the storm that raged in New England Tuesday. The first train from Boston for two days arrived at New York Wednesday.

Senator White of California is making a vigorous fight against the annexation of Hawaii. He says the whole scheme is based on sentimentality and sugar. He claimed that the sugar people were backing the project in the hope of making the benefits now derived from reciprocity, perpetual.

The Business Men's League of Pennsylvania composed of citizens throughout the entire State has endorsed Ex-Governor General John W. Wanner for Governor of Pennsylvania. It is claimed that this movement is the opening gun of a fierce battle to drive Senator Matthew Stanley Quay from the political field.

"Young Mitchell," the fighter has made affidavit that Ned Lanigan, a San Francisco City Hall broker, and Supervisor Haskins demanded a sum of money from him for the issuance of a fight permit. Lanigan belongs to the Buckley-Rainey element and it is claimed has been doing quite a business in the line. The Grand Jury will investigate.

The steamer Alliance just arrived at Seattle from Copper River, Alaska, reports a double murder and lynching at Value's Pass on January 2d. N. A. Call of Worthington, Minnesota, and W. A. Lee of Salem, Mass., were murdered by M. F. Tanner, known as the "Montana Cowboy," who was promptly hanged by a crowd of about 40 prospectors.

Floating Up a River.

It was a vexed question in 1890 whether the Pilcomayo river, which flows for hundreds of miles from the Bolivian Andes to the Paraguay, might be used as a commercial highway from Bolivia to the ocean. Our countryman, Captain Page, settled this question so conclusively that no further effort to utilize the Pilcomayo is likely to be made, and in this work, that cost him his life, for he died of his privations after being hemmed in for months by hostile Indians, he devised a plan for steaming up river when the water was so low that his vessel was stuck in the mud. He was determined to go still farther, though his little steamer, which drew only 18 inches, rested on the river bottom, so behind the boat he threw up an embankment of earth clear across the channel, backed it with palm trunks and brushwood, and before long the water had risen a couple of feet, and the little Bolivia was able to go on her way four miles before she stuck again. Then another dam was built, and this process was repeated seven times, and with the aid of the dams the vessel advanced about 35 miles above the highest point she could reach at the natural low water stage.—Harper's Round Table.

A Lucky Find.

Two men walking on Campbell street toward Twelfth one night were accosted by a negro woman who was excited. "Kin either one of you mens give me a match?" she said.

"What for?"

"I lost a quahat down there, an I want to hunt fur it."

She was given several matches and ran ahead and began striking matches and looking along the sidewalk. When the two men came up, she had stopped hunting and had apparently found the coin.

"Well, did you find it?" inquired one of the men.

"No, but I done find this horseshoe, an that's better'n two quahats," she said.—Kansas City Star.

Theatrical.

Brette—I never saw such a cold audience in my life.

Light—Didn't they warm up a bit?

Brette—Well, when they spoke of bringing out the author I believe some of the audience got hot.—Yonkers Statesman.

A contemporary mentions that there are schools in Belgium where the girls are not only taught housekeeping in all its branches, but the management of children as well.

Seven British regiments have been given permission to add the word "Catholic" to their colors.

You close down the mills of New England. You take from the laboring man 10, 15 and 20 per cent of his wages. You beggar him; you destroy his opportunity; you make it impossible for him to discharge the duties of citizenship, and then you tell us that all these things may be done, that prices may be lowered, that products may be kept at a price that does not pay for production, and in the end labor must stand it all, and yet you tell us that you are doing this, that the bondholder may have the bounty—not the contracted price, but the bounty—the beneficence of the government of the United States.

"Mr. President, if beneficence is to be dealt out, let it be dealt out to the men who form the great basis of society. Let it be dealt out to the man who maintain the honor and integrity of the country. Would you look to the bondholder, would you look to the money shaver, would you look to the banker in the hour of your distress?

If your flag were assailed, you would go to the man with calloused hands, for whom the silver dollar is good enough and who is willing to take it. To that class you go. When the great contest between one and another portion of our country, the bondholder now, the money lender then, said to the government, 'We will take your securities at 12 per cent discount.' What did the great body of the American people do? They said 'we will carry your flag, we will fight your battles, we will do all this for $13 a month, and we will take our pay in greenbacks worth 40 cents to the dollar.' No New England man rose then, no New York man rose then and said, 'it is dishonest to give these soldiers 40-cent money.' When they went into the army, the greenback dollar was worth 40 cents. They have appealed here again and again, by petition and otherwise, that we make up to them the depreciation of the money they received from us, a mere stipend for the danger that they incurred, and, Mr. President, not a man in this chamber or in the other who holds now that the honor of the government is being destroyed by the payment of silver would listen to that appeal."

SECRETARY GAGE'S CIRCULAR.

L. J. Gage, Secretary of the Treasury, has issued a circular, in which he states that:

"Neither silver certificates nor silver dollars are redeemable in gold."

"Gold coins and standard silver dollars, being standard coins of the United States, are not redeemable."

"Subsidiary coins and minor coins may be presented, in sums or multiple of $20 to the Treasurer of the United States or to an assistant treasurer for redemption or exchange into lawful money."

"Gold certificate, being receipts for gold coin, are redeemable in such coin by the Treasurer and all assistant treasurers of the United States."

"Silver certificates are receipts for standard silver dollars deposited, and are redeemable in such dollars only."

"Coin obligations of the Government are redeemable in gold coin when gold is demanded, and is silver when silver is demanded."

As many of our local gold standard men contend that standard silver dollars, which contain less than fifty cents worth of silver at the present price of the metal, pass current for 100 cents because the Government redeems the silver dollars in gold, the statement of such high gold bug authority as the Secretary of the Treasury, ought to satisfy them that that they are wrong. A standard silver dollar is the unit of money in the United States. The Government declares it to be a legal tender for all debts and the Government will not redeem it except it is tendered in payment of dues.

The Mining Fair now in progress in San Francisco, is said to be more of an advertising and information bureau for the Klondike than any thing else. Alaskan outfits, even to the necessary dogs are on exhibition and for sale and illustrations are given of packing supplies over the Chilkoot Pass, by men who in all probability never saw Alaska and perhaps not even snow or ice. It is claimed, however, that the exhibit is pretty good and as long as the admission is low, no one is seriously hurt.

Floating Up a River.

It was a vexed question in 1890 whether the Pilcomayo river, which flows for hundreds of miles from the Bolivian Andes to the Paraguay, might be used as a commercial highway from Bolivia to the ocean. Our countryman, Captain Page, settled this question so conclusively that no further effort to utilize the Pilcomayo is likely to be made, and in this work, that cost him his life, for he died of his privations after being hemmed in for months by hostile Indians, he devised a plan for steaming up river when the water was so low that his vessel was stuck in the mud. He was determined to go still farther, though his little steamer, which drew only 18 inches, rested on the river bottom, so behind the boat he threw up an embankment of earth clear across the channel, backed it with palm trunks and brushwood, and before long the water had risen a couple of feet, and the little Bolivia was able to go on her way four miles before she stuck again. Then another dam was built, and this process was repeated seven times, and with the aid of the dams the vessel advanced about 85 miles above the highest point she could reach at the natural low water stage.—Harper's Round Table.

A Lucky Find.

Two men walking on Campbell street toward Twelfth one night were accosted by a negro woman who was excited. "Kin either one of you mens give me a match?" she said.

"What for?"

"I lost a quahtha down there, an I want to hunt fur it."

She was given several matches and ran ahead and began striking matches and looking along the sidewalk. When the two men came up, she had stopped hunting and had apparently found the coin.

"Well, did you find it?" inquired one of the men.

"No, but I done find this horseshoe, an that's better'n two quanthas," she said.—Kansas City Star.

OUR "GLORIOUS" ADMINISTRATION.

Some of its Operations in Nevada—A Missionary Dispatched to Washington to See to the Pio.

CARSON CITY, February 3, 1898.
EDITOR JOURNAL.—It is but meet and proper that the public be advised of the various doings of our "glorious administration" in Nevada and the pressure that is being brought to bear on the Hanna-McKinley combination to furnish stalls at the public crib for the patriots, who do not want a "mere legal technicality," as the President terms it, to prevent the bondholders and gold trust from shaping our financial affairs to suit themselves regardless of the effect it may have on the general public.

At the Indian School, known as the Stewart Institute, which is situated a short distance south of Carson, a vacancy occurred in one of the departments a few months ago. A highly respected and accomplished young woman, a native of the State and a successful teacher in the public schools, applied for the position and having been examined as to her qualifications by a commission appointed under the Civil Service regulations, she was accepted by the Superintendent of the Institute. She served satisfactorily and creditably, so I am informed, for three months and it was supposed by the young lady and her friends that she would be retained permanently at the school. The fact that she is a Nevada and that her relatives are imbedded with the silver heresy reached Washington through an inspector. That placed her under the ban of the Administration, and the Department of the Interior called upon the head of the Indian Affairs Bureau for an explanation. The final result was the appointment of an easterner, who had a "pull," to the place and the Nevada girl was politely informed that her services were no longer required. Who will now have the hardihood to assert that the Administration has not achieved a signal victory over the silverites and accomplished something to which goldbugdom can "point with pride."

The coterie of Hannaites, who by reason of their treachery to the interests of the country generally and of Nevada particularly, think their title is clear to every Federal office in the State that Eastern men do not want, have dispatched a representative to Washington to appeal to Messrs. Hanna and McKinley, the occupants of the White House, in their behalf. Those whose particular claims will be presented with all the fervor and eloquence of the envoy are, I am told:

R. K. Colcord of Carson for Superintendent of the Mint
H. O. Dunn of Carson for Melter and Refiner at the Mint.

A Virginia City man, whose name I have not learned, for Assayer at the Mint.

Frank McCullough of Carson for United States Marshal.

Allen C. Bragg of Reno for United States Surveyor General.

E. D. Vanderlath of Carson for Register of the United States Land Office.

O. H. Gray of Carson for Superintendent of the Indian School.

Various smaller fry are to be provided for as chief clerk, accountant, etc., at the Mint.

There is also a Deputy Internal Revenue Collector to be appointed, but that will be graciously conceded to a Comstock man.

Our Senators, it is reported, are not disposed to favor all the gentlemen whose names are stated as above, but they will not be considered in the matter and the appeal will be made direct to Mr. Hanna and Mr. McKinley at the White House. Much is expected from this mission to Washington and results will be anxiously awaited by those who are in and those who want to get in.

That there are others who expect some of the Federal pie in Nevada is well known. They will probably send an agent to Washington to urge their claims, but when and who this dependent knoweth not.

Sheriff Hayes Calls Him Down.

Frank Hanning, a would be Comstock blood, who has been favored with a four dollar a day job for some time, to the detriment of some more worthy man, undertook on Wednesday evening, after drawing his month's pay, to jump the town and "fool" his creditors. Sheriff Quirk was notified and immediately wired Sheriff McInnes, but he being confined at his home with illness, Deputy John Hayes took the matter in hand and as Hanning drove into town he was taken in to custody. He simulated great surprise and some indignation but Sheriff Hayes told him it would be alright after a little and invited his prisoner to accompany him. They stepped into the Riverside to await the arrival of Sheriff Quirk, and Hanning watching his opportunity attempted to escape. He succeeded in getting through the door, but Hayes was two quick for him and soon had him by the collar. Almost immediately afterwards Sheriff Quirk arrived accompanied by a man who had a claim against Hanning and it took the efforts of the two Sheriffs to keep Hanning from receiving a sound thrashing. The prisoner shelled out the money he had with him and was allowed to go.

Sheriff Hayes was complimented on his agility and the prisoner concluded he had encountered the wrong men before he got through.

Beauty Contest in Washoe County for Omaha Exposition.

As Vice President Maxson has called upon me to furnish him with the names of the handsomest ladies in Washoe county, I have concluded to leave their selection to a vote of the ladies of the county.

All ladies, residents of Washoe county, may submit to me by written ballot, in person or by postal card through the mail, the names of eight ladies whom they consider the best looking in the county, and must sign their names to the list as the voter, and no one will be allowed more than one vote. On the 15th of February the votes will be closed and the names of the eight ladies receiving the highest number of votes will be given to the Vice President and their photographs requested. These photos will be grouped with those chosen from the other counties of the State, and from this collection the Exposition management will choose two whose faces will be cast upon souvenir medals to be issued by the Omaha Exposition.

"It will rain or snow before 12 o'clock to-night. That is what the Gazette's barometer says." The tire on the Gazette's barometer is punctured and "needs fixing." At midnight there was neither rain, snow, nor anything else that indicated a storm, save a few feathery clouds.

The marked change in the temperature at an early hour yesterday morning caused the air and electric currents to get mixed up, so that the phenomenon of a thunder storm in mid-winter came near being a feature. There were two sharp peals of thunder, the center of disturbance appearing to be on the mountains west of Verdi.

Grant and Longstreet.

General Grant had as much to do with Longstreet's becoming a Republican as any one else. They had been schoolmates at West Point, had been graduated the same year and received their commissions at the same time. They fought among the cactus bushes of Mexico and had drunk mescal from the same jug a thousand times. It was at Jefferson Barracks, near St. Louis, that Longstreet introduced his cousin, Miss Julia Dent, to Grant, and it was Longstreet himself who told the young lady of the worth of his friend. They were married, and the Georgian was at the wedding. When they next saw each other, it was at Appomattox. After the formalities of the surrender were over General Grant took General Longstreet to one side and said:

"Julia wants to see you. Go home and see your family and then come to see me, won't you?"

Longstreet promised, and he kept his word. When General Grant became president, he asked for his advice and begged that his former adversary now be one of his advisers. General Grant never had a truer friend during his administration. They knew each other. When the tragedy took place at Mount McGregor, Longstreet suffered as if it were the loss of a brother. He had often visited the tomb on the Hudson and had laid the gentlest tribute of a friend upon the marble.—Chicago Times-Herald.

The Ground Is Alive.

We are so used to thinking of the soil as mere mineral matter that it comes quite as a shock to find this is a mistake.

As a matter of fact, the layer of soft mold which clothes the ground in all cultivable districts and from which vegetation springs is actually in great part a living layer of tiny plants and animals.

Interlacing threads of molds and fungi, worms and grubs, creeping in sects, tiny root parasites, decaying leaves and the millions of bacteria which spring from them—all these are mixed and mingled together for many inches down below our feet in a confused mass of life. Germs of all sorts swarm in countless millions.

Indeed, all the plants that grow and life that exists on the face of the earth owe their being to the fact that the ground is alive. You take a shovelful of the finest soil in the world and sterilize it—that is, beat it till all the life in it is destroyed—and then plant seeds in it. No amount of care or watering will make these seeds grow. Their life depends on the life in the soil around them.—London Answers.

Glasgow's Family Homes.

Among the many new things started by the Glasgow corporation is a "family home." It is intended mainly for widowers and widows who go out to work. There are 100 bedrooms, each of which contains a good bed for the father or mother and a broad cot for the younger children. For these rooms the parents pay 5s. 6d. a week, and that sum includes the lighting, heating and cleaning of them. Clean linen is supplied once a week. In the home, also, there are dining, recreation and nursery rooms. The children are looked after and cared for while the parents are at work for an infinitesimal sum. The cooking, washing and bathing arrangements are excellent, and as the thing is done on a large scale and economically arranged the establishment is expected to pay for itself. Glasgow benevolence is nothing if not practical, and this new home seems a most admirable institution.—St. James Gazette.

The Place Vendome in Paris.

The Paris correspondent of a London paper says that, though always stately and imposing, the Place Vendome is by no means a lively part of Paris. It has retained through long years the characteristics for which it was noted in the reign of the grand monarch, Louis XIV, for whom it was planned and laid out. Of late a few good shops have appeared here and there among the houses on the place, and it is proposed to add to the number of these business establishments. Hence in a comparatively brief space of time the buildings around Napoleon's column will be brilliantly diversified, and stately monotony may disappear. The Place Vendome may in a few years, or even less, be able to distance the Rue de la Paix as a locality for afternoon shopping, tea drinking and flirtation.

His Reason.

"Why is it," they asked him, "that you prefer gas to electric light?" "In the case of electric light," he said, looking at them in astonishment, "it can usually be controlled by means of a button or a spring on the wall with in easy reach."

They admitted that he spoke truly. "That being so," he went on, "if you had ever stood over a small but pretty young woman who was striving and anxious face was light the gas you never would have to ask me the question you have seen fit to put."—Chicago Post.

OUR "GLORIOUS" ADMINISTRATION.

Some of its Operations in Nevada—A Missionary Dispatched to Washington to See to the Pio.

CARSON CITY, February 3, 1898.
EDITOR JOURNAL.—It is but meet and proper that the public be advised of the various doings of our "glorious administration" in Nevada and the pressure that is being brought to bear on the Hanna-McKinley combination to furnish stalls at the public crib for the patriots, who do not want a "mere legal technicality," as the President terms it, to prevent the bondholders and gold trust from shaping our financial affairs to suit themselves regardless of the effect it may have on the general public.

At the Indian School, known as the Stewart Institute, which is situated a short distance south of Carson, a vacancy occurred in one of the departments a few months ago. A highly respected and accomplished young woman, a native of the State and a successful teacher in the public schools, applied for the position and having been examined as to her qualifications by a commission appointed under the Civil Service regulations, she was accepted by the Superintendent of the Institute. She served satisfactorily and creditably, so I am informed, for three months and it was supposed by the young lady and her friends that she would be retained permanently at the school. The fact that she is a Nevada and that her relatives are imbedded with the silver heresy reached Washington through an inspector. That placed her under the ban of the Administration, and the Department of the Interior called upon the head of the Indian Affairs Bureau for an explanation. The final result was the appointment of an easterner, who had a "pull," to the place and the Nevada girl was politely informed that her services were no longer required. Who will now have the hardihood to assert that the Administration has not achieved a signal victory over the silverites and accomplished something to which goldbugdom can "point with pride."

The coterie of Hannaites, who by reason of their treachery to the interests of the country generally and of Nevada particularly, think their title is clear to every Federal office in the State that Eastern men do not want, have dispatched a representative to Washington to appeal to Messrs. Hanna and McKinley, the occupants of the White House, in their behalf. Those whose particular claims will be presented with all the fervor and eloquence of the envoy are, I am told:

R. K. Colcord of Carson for Superintendent of the Mint.
H. O. Dunn of Carson for Melter and Refiner at the Mint.

A Virginia City man, whose name I have not learned, for Assayer at the Mint.

Frank McCullough of Carson for United States Marshal.

Allen C. Bragg of Reno for United States Surveyor General.

E. D. Vanderlath of Carson for Register of the United States Land Office.

O. H. Gray of Carson for Superintendent of the Indian School.

Various smaller fry are to be provided for as chief clerk, accountant, etc., at the Mint.

There is also a Deputy Internal Revenue Collector to be appointed, but that will be graciously conceded to a Comstock man.

Our Senators, it is reported, are not disposed to favor all the gentlemen whose names are stated as above, but they will not be considered in the matter and the appeal will be made direct to Mr. Hanna and Mr. McKinley at the White House. Much is expected from this mission to Washington and results will be anxiously awaited by those who are in and those who want to get in.

That there are others who expect some of the Federal pie in Nevada is well known. They will probably send an agent to Washington to urge their claims, but when and who this dependent knoweth not.

Sheriff Hayes Calls Him Down.

Frank Hanning, a would be Comstock blood, who has been favored with a four dollar a day job for some time, to the detriment of some more worthy man, undertook on Wednesday evening, after drawing his month's pay, to jump the town and "fool" his creditors. Sheriff Quirk was notified and immediately wired Sheriff McInnes, but he being confined at his home with illness, Deputy John Hayes took the matter in hand and as Hanning drove into town he was taken in to custody. He simulated great surprise and some indignation but Sheriff Hayes told him it would be alright after a little and invited his prisoner to accompany him. They stepped into the Riverside to await the arrival of Sheriff Quirk, and Hanning watching his opportunity attempted to escape. He succeeded in getting through the door, but Hayes was two quick for him and soon had him by the collar. Almost immediately afterwards Sheriff Quirk arrived accompanied by a man who had a claim against Hanning and it took the efforts of the two Sheriffs to keep Hanning from receiving a sound thrashing. The prisoner shelled out the money he had with him and was allowed to go.

Beauty Contest in Washoe County for Omaha Exposition.

As Vice President Maxson has called upon me to furnish him with the names of the handsomest ladies in Washoe county, I have concluded to leave their selection to a vote of the ladies of the county.

All ladies, residents of Washoe county, may submit to me by written ballot, in person or by postal card through the mail, the names of eight ladies whom they consider the best looking in the county, and must sign their names to the list as the voter, and no one will be allowed more than one vote. On the 15th of February the votes will be closed and the names of the eight ladies receiving the highest number of votes will be given to the Vice President and their photographs requested. These photos will be grouped with those chosen from the other counties of the State, and from this collection the Exposition management will choose two whose faces will be cast upon souvenir medals to be issued by the Omaha Exposition.

The cold has been intense for sixty days, and the old-timers say that it is the hardest winter they have seen for the past nineteen years. The cattle losses will not be very heavy, the owners being fully prepared for a hard season.

Death of R. H. Wright.

R. H. Wright, formerly of Reno and at one time Deputy State Treasurer under L. L. Crockett died at Hawthorne Wednesday afternoon of heart trouble. He was of late years engaged in the merchandising business at Hawthorne, where he was well liked and a leading man in the community. Many of the old timers of Reno will remember his kind and genial manners and will regret to hear of his death. His remains will be buried in Virginia.

"It will rain or snow before 12 o'clock to-night. That is what the Gazette's barometer says." The time on the Gazette's barometer is punctured and "needs fixing." At midnight there was neither rain, snow, nor anything else that indicated a storm, save a few feathery clouds.

The marked change in the temperature at an early hour yesterday morning caused the air and electric currents to get mixed up, so that the phenomenon of a thunder storm in mid-winter came near being a feature. There were two sharp peals of thunder, the center of disturbance appearing to be on the mountains west of Verdi.

Grant and Longstreet.

General Grant had as much to do with Longstreet's becoming a Republican as any one else. They had been schoolmates at West Point, had been graduated the same year and received their commissions at the same time. They fought among the cactus bushes of Mexico and had drunk mescal from the same jug a thousand times. It was at Jefferson Barracks, near St. Louis, that Longstreet introduced his cousin, Miss Julia Dent, to Grant, and it was Longstreet himself who told the young lady of the worth of his friend. They were married, and the Georgian was at the wedding. When they next saw each other, it was at Appomattox. After the formalities of the surrender were over General Grant took General Longstreet to one side and said:

"Julia wants to see you. Go home and see your family and then come to see me, won't you?"

Longstreet promised, and he kept his word. When General Grant became president, he asked for his advice and begged that his former adversary now be one of his advisers. General Grant never had a truer friend during his administration. They knew each other. When the tragedy took place at Mount McGregor, Longstreet suffered as if it were the loss of a brother. He had often visited the tomb on the Hudson and had laid the gentlest tribute of a friend upon the marble.—Chicago Times-Herald.

The Ground Is Alive.

We are so used to thinking of the soil as mere mineral matter that it comes quite as a shock to find this is a mistake. As a matter of fact, the layer of soft mold which clothes the ground in all cultivable districts and from which vegetation springs is actually in great part a living layer of tiny plants and animals.

Interlacing threads of molds and fungi, worms and grubs, creeping in sects, tiny root parasites, decaying leaves and the millions of bacteria which spring from them—all these are mixed and mingled together for many inches down below our feet in a confused mass of life. Germs of all sorts swarm in countless millions.

Indeed, all the plants that grow and life that exists on the face of the earth owe their being to the fact that the ground is alive. You take a shovelful of the finest soil in the world and sterilize it—that is, beat it till all the life in it is destroyed—and then plant seeds in it. No amount of care or watering will make these seeds grow. Their life depends on the life in the soil around them.—London Answers.

Glasgow's Family Homes.

Among the many new things started by the Glasgow corporation is a "family home." It is intended mainly for widowers and widows who go out to work. There are 100 bedrooms, each of which contains a good bed for the father or mother and a broad cot for the younger children. For these rooms the parents pay 5s. 6d. a week, and that sum includes the lighting, heating and cleaning of them. Clean linen is supplied once a week. In the home, also, there are dining, recreation and nursery rooms. The children are looked after and cared for while the parents are at work for an infinitesimal sum. The cooking, washing and bathing arrangements are excellent, and as the thing is done on a large scale and economically arranged the establishment is expected to pay for itself. Glasgow benevolence is nothing if not practical, and this new home seems a most admirable institution.—St. James Gazette.

The Place Vendome in Paris.

The Paris correspondent of a London paper says that, though always stately and imposing, the Place Vendome is by no means a lively part of Paris. It has retained through long years the characteristics for which it was noted in the reign of the grand monarch, Louis XIV, for whom it was planned and laid out. Of late a few good shops have appeared here and there among the houses on the place, and it is proposed to add to the number of these business establishments. Hence in a comparatively brief space of time the buildings around Napoleon's column will be brilliantly diversified, and stately monotony may disappear. The Place Vendome may in a few years, or even less, be able to distance the Rue de la Paix as a locality for afternoon shopping, tea drinking and flirtation.

His Reason.

"Why is it," they asked him, "that you prefer gas to electric light?" "In the case of electric light," he said, looking at them in astonishment, "it can usually be controlled by means of a button or a spring on the wall within easy reach."

They admitted that he spoke truly. "That being so," he went on, "if you had ever stood over a small but pretty young woman who was striving and anxious face was light the gas you never would have to ask me the question you have seen fit to put."—Chicago Post.

All of which will more fully appear from the complaint, which is on file in the office of the Clerk of said Court, at Reno, in said county, and to which you are especially referred, and you are further notified that if you fail to appear and answer said complaint, the said plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief demanded.

HORSES IN HISTORY.

SOME OF THE NOBLE STEEDS THAT HAVE ACHIEVED FAME.

The Four Footed Friend For Whom a City Was Named—Roman Horses That Lived Like Princes—Chargers Who Won Renown Amid the Carnage of War.

It is hard to say with any near approach to accuracy how long the horse has been a domesticated animal. We can only say that he has been so from time immemorial—that is, from the earliest times of which we have any records. The Assyrian sculptures—and they are about the most ancient of which we know anything, for some of them are estimated to date from 4200 B. C.—contain more representations of caparioned horses than even men. Still, we do not get any examples of favorite horses until a long time after this.

Even the first examples, indeed, are only legendary, for, though there is no doubt that Hector of Troy existed, it is not improbable that Homer invented the names of his three favorite horses, Pedarce, the cream colored Gelatse and the fiery Ethon. But the horse of Alexander the Great, Bucephalus, is an individual as historically real as his master. This famous horse was, says Plutarch, offered to Philip for 13 talents (about $2,518), but he displayed so much viciousness that Alexander's father was about to send him away when the young prince offered to tame him. He agreed, in the event of failure, to forfeit the price of the horse and began by turning his head to the sun, as he observed that the horse was frightened at his own shadow. In the end he completely tamed him—so completely, indeed, that Bucephalus, though he would permit nobody except Alexander to mount him, always knelt down for that purpose to his master. He died at the age of 30, and his master built as his mausoleum the city of Bucephalus.

Readers of Macaulay will remember the famous black Anster, the horse of Merminius, and the dark gray charger of Mamilius, whose sudden appearance in the city of Tusculum without his master brought the news of the defeat of the allies at Lake Regillus. Connected with that battle, too, were the horses of the great "twin brethren," Castor and Pollux, clock black, with white legs and tails. But those are legendary. Not so, however, the well known horse of Caligula, Incitatus. This animal had a stable of marble; his stall was of ivory, his clothing of purple and his halters stiff with gems. He had a set of golden plates and was presented with a palace, furniture and slaves complete, in order that guests invited in his name should be properly entertained. His diet was the most costly that could be imagined, the finest grapes that Asia could provide being reserved for him. Verus, another Roman emperor about a century later, treated his horse almost as extravagant. He fed him with raisins and almonds with his own hands, and when he died erected a statue of gold to him, while all the dignitaries of the empire attended the funeral.

As we come to later times, so we get more examples of favorite horses. William the Conqueror had one which he rode at the battle of Hastings, about which almost everything seems to be known except his name. He was of huge size and was a present from King Alfonso of Spain—"such a gift as a prince might give and a prince receive." This gallant horse, however, did not survive the battle, for Gyrrh, Harold's butcher, "clove him with a bill, and he died." Richard I's horse was called Maleck, and was jet black. He bore his master through the holy war and arrived in England before him. In fact, he survived the king several years. The second Richard, too, had a favorite horse, called Roan Barbary, which was supposed to be the finest horse in Europe at that time, and it was on Roan Barbary that the young king was mounted when the incident wherein Wat Tyler was stabbed by the mayor of Walworth took place.

About a century later we get the Wars of the Roses, and in the many battles of that civil disturbance a couple of horses played important parts. These belonged to the great Earl of Warwick, the kingmaker. His first was Maleck, a beautiful gray, which he rode at the battle of Towton. It was this horse whose death turned the fortunes of the battle, for Warwick, seeing that his men were giving ground, deliberately sprang from his favorite horse and killed him. Then his men knew that the kingmaker was prepared to conquer, but not to fly. They rallied and finally won the battle.

There were two horses belonging to highwaymen which were famous in their time. One of them belonged to the celebrated knight of the road, Paul Clifford. He was called Robin and was Irish. In color iron gray, he was reputed by judges of horsemanship—and there were some who were quite as competent to give an opinion, if not more so, as any of the present day—to be absolutely without blemish and to be second to none. Another famous horse, or rather mare, was Black Bess. Her owner, Dick Turpin, or, to give him his correct name, Nicks, committed a robbery in London at 4 o'clock in the morning, and, fearing discovery, made for Gravesend, ferried across the river and appeared at the bowling green in York the same evening, having accomplished his ride of 300 miles in 16 hours on one horse. At least so says the legend, and this is certain—that on his trial he was acquitted, the jury considering it impossible that he could have got to York in the time.—London Standard.

He Listened to All.
Fontenelle listened to everything and he offended no one by disputing anything. At the close of his life he was asked the secret of his success, and he replied that it was by observing two maxims, "Everybody may be right" and "Everything may be so."
Cazabon of the Marseilles theater relates that he learned in two hours and played the same evening the part of Buridan in "La Tour de Nesle."
"Prodigious!" says a bystander.
"How could you ever do it?"
"Ho, I just read it carefully and then I tied a knot in my handkerchief to remember it by."—Paris Figure.

"It's no use; I've tried dozens of places and it's simply impossible to get good tobacco for five cents."
"Good cigars, you mean. If you'd invest your nickel in Piper Heidsieck you'd get the best piece of tobacco you ever put between your teeth."

Judges of good tobacco everywhere are unanimous in their praise of

PIPER HEIDSIECK PLUG TOBACCO
(CHAMPAGNE FLAVOR)

It is not only the best chewing tobacco on the market, but since the recent increase in size (making the new plug nearly half as large again as the old) it is positively the biggest piece of good tobacco ever sold for five cents.
